

National Day of

HOPE

We frantically are looking for hope, help, to be held tightly in love and support. Yet we fight and pull away from people and resources that will give us exactly what we are looking for. We are frightened out of our minds by the fear of showing our need from someone else, in front of anyone else.